Global Veterinary Public Health

Multiplication of health emergencies, globalization of animal and products of animal origin trade..., all these public health and economic challenges require a greater control of animal constraints by the States, and the improvement of global health governance.

In order to face these challenges, within VetAgro Sup and under the supervision of the Ministry of Agriculture, the Service France Vétérinaire International (FVI) of ENSV-FVI:

- ✓ federates, coordinates and promotes French expertise, both public and private, in all areas of veterinary public health at international level;
- ✓ promotes initial, continuous and specialized training provided by its partners;
- ✓ develops international tools and partnerships in scientific and technical fields;
- ✓ supports the implementation of international standards (OIE, Codex Alimentarius).
